Confronting Developmental Delay in Children From the Perspective of an NDD Therapist

Join us for an opportunity to gain from Anna's 12-years' experience as a Neuro-Developmental Delay Therapist. Topics include the primitive and postural reflexes, the vestibular system at the brain stem level, exercises, understanding and recognizing the need for NDD therapy, and appreciating the process of maturity in the central nervous system. This is an advanced course. Materials needed: a copy of Miracle Children by Anna Buck and A Journey of Hope by Anna Buck. Also recommended is a copy of Reflexes, Learning and Behavior by Sally Goddard. The course does not qualify for certification or licensure. CEU credits may apply; certificate of completion will be awarded for the 12-hour course.

Anna Buck's Credentials:

Goals:

- Be able to recognize "normal" vs. "abnormal" development
- Become more familiar with the primitive reflexes and the vestibular system at the brain stem level
- Become acquainted with observing reflexes during an exercise
- Learn typical observations and expectations as children progress through NDD therapy
- Learn about how the exercises stimulate maturity of the CNS
- Be able to recognize a "brain stem" exercise vs. a higher-level exercise
